Sugg Theatre FEATURE HOUSE TONIGHT

"THE GUILTY ONE"
Blond drama, starring Cleo Madison and Wm. V. Mong. They have scored another hit in this drama. The plot is logical from start to finish and worked out accurately in all the minute details, which make for good directing.

"ANIMATED WEEKLY"
Latest events around the world. Deutschland on home dash. Fun and work on the border. Capitol complete at last. Cartoons by Hy Mayer. Cat's victim in paralysis. War donkeys oust horse. Prepare for car strike.
MONDAY—"The Children of Eve"
Viola Dana, featured in this marvelous photodrama. "Children of Eve" abounds in tense, dramatic situations faithfully portrayed by this talented star and supported by an exceptionally strong cast.

TUESDAY—"Gloria's Romance"
The big motion picture novel featuring Billie Burke, America's most charming actress.

We will have five reels in all. A good comedy for the children also today. Don't miss our show. Our music is the best. We play to suit the pictures. We have a twenty-five piece orchestra. Don't miss our show as it will be extra good today.

Kline Edison feature Monday, "The Children of Eve."
Billie Burke Tuesday in "Gloria's Romance." Each one gets better. She is at her best.

Coming Thursday, Francis Ford and Grace Cunard in "Peg o' the Ring."

BOY'S RIGHT TO WHISTLE

Inalienable Prerogative of Youth, and Anyway, It is Useless to Try to Stop Him.

As to the office boys, messenger boys, grocery boys and boys of many other merchandises that are delivered at our houses every day—well of course, they all whistle. The man who never whistles is not unknown, but no possible reward could bring to light a specimen of the genus boy who doesn't. It's an inalienable right of boyhood to whistle; it is handed down to him with his disposition, his freckles, his pugnacity and all those things that so render unkind people, on occasions, of his father. When father was a boy he whistled; and now that the boy has taken the old man's place, why, the boy whistles. It's perfectly logical that the boy should whistle—and, of course, a boy never is anything but logical.

So let us all figure the same way the poet did when he requested the boy who whistled at his work. For otherwise no boy would be there to do the work. And let's spread that mantle of charity along the years so as to take in the men who whistle, too. Don't sneer at them; don't strangle the soul of music as it strives to attain expression from their puckered lips. Don't—but what's the use of saying "don't try to stop them?" It can't be done, anyway.
